From the Senior Associate Pastor: Father Doug Ebert

*Lent is a blessed season where we celebrate
God's mercy as we acknowledge our sinfulness.*

In the last installment of these articles, it is worthwhile to explain some other issues or misconceptions that sometimes occur when considering the sacrament of Reconciliation.

There is no requirement or expectation that confession be done “face-to-face” even though this practice has become widespread, especially at communal penance services. Many parishes have confessionals or a designated area where a screen exists between the priest and the penitent (including St. John the Baptist).

The common practice of being “face-to-face” with the priest has erroneously led some to see this as an opportunity for spiritual direction, counseling, venting frustration about Church politics or teachings, lengthy explanations of another's sins, or blaming another for your sins. There are opportunities for this sort of dialog with clergy, but this is not what the sacrament of Reconciliation is about! It is about the forgiveness of your sins. Questions specific to your sin are legitimate in the confessional, but lengthy explanations or delving into minutia are common escape mechanisms to avoid or deny personal guilt.

The priest is a sacramental representative of Jesus Christ using his ministry through the authority of the Church to forgive sins. The priest is not charged to be your judge; you are confessing your sins to our merciful God who already knows the truth; making excuses to the priest consumes precious time, and the line may be long. If the priest needs to understand something better, he will ask.

It is surprising how often people confess another's sins. This may blind us to our individual need for God's tender mercy. If your examination of conscience takes you to the sin of another, imitate God's merciful love and ask God to help you to forgive them. You could pray that they may seek forgiveness – if you seek forgiveness and forgive, your example may be compelling. Confession is not a place to drag down another. If, on the other hand, you are confessing a personal need to blame or drag down another, then you are on track for a good confession!

The seal of the confessional is a grave matter. It is not a place for people to communicate about another repentant or to identify who is next in line. Nothing said in the confessional, nothing, can be identified with the person making the confession by any priest at any time under any circumstances. For this reason, some priests prefer a screen to keep the penitent anonymous; but this is never required – anonymous or face-to-face confession is your choice.

As this five-part essay about reconciliation is concluded, it is my hope that we may all be reconciled with God and each other in peace-filled forgiveness during this penitential season of Lent. God is a merciful judge who wants to forgive and redeem us – but we need to desire God's mercy in an attitude of repentance.

May we all praise God's abundant and loving mercy!

In Christ,

Father Doug Ebert

Deacon Michael Lane will present to parents on the liturgical richness of the Holy Week liturgies to inspire worship

In recent weeks, needs for the SJB Kidz Closet have significantly increased. We would greatly appreciate specific donations of the following new or gently used items:

Boys and girls shorts and summer tops, PJs, and underwear, size 3T - size 8
Shoes and socks for same age group. Sneakers are especially needed.

Bless you for your generosity!

Spiritual Adoption Update

Your spiritually adopted baby is now in the seventh month. Beginning this month the baby uses all four senses. Eyelids open and close and the eyes look around. The baby can taste, touch, cough, yawn, and hiccup. He or she now recognizes his or her mother's voice. His or her grip is even stronger now than it will be after birth. The hair on the head is growing longer and the downy covering the rest of the body is disappearing. During this time, the baby will receive antibodies from his or her mother providing immunity to a wide variety of diseases. View your baby's growth and development at the Spiritual Adoption Table in the St. Paul Plaza.
